

Photo essay

Trip to kasol

Shivangi anand
Fc-3

Journey begins here(kasol)

It takes 12hr to reach kasol from delhi it os called called mini israel of india for its nature beauty tourist comes here every year its has its own culture called hippie culture which is very famous amongst foreigner. I reached kasol in evening and i captured this!

f/ 2.8,ISO 300,2.5mm

Marketplace of kasol

As i have reached kasol i find that its too cold here so i went to the market to buy warm cloth for myself and after that i will go for trekking so i bought the cloth and when i went there different types of cloth are there i find it very intresting and buyed for my family member too

f/2,5 ISO 100 3.5mm

Manikaran gurudwara

This small town attracts tourists visiting Manali and Kullu to its hot springs and pilgrim centres. An experimental geothermal energy plant has also been set up here. Outer view of the Manikaran temple and Manikaran Sahib gurudwara located at Manikaran featuring the famous hot water well and the Parvati river flowing by it. this is the most famous place in the town.

Mood of food

As kasol is on top of hill food is quiet expensive there everything is not easily available there chinese is quiet famous over there you can get simple food like paratha bread butter easily over there .

Lost in nature

f/2,5 ISO 100 3.5mm

Malana is famous for its distinct culture and the temple of Jamlu Devta. The people of this quiet hamlet live in self-imposed isolation. They believe themselves to be the descendants of Aryans and that the purity of their race would be compromised by interaction with outsiders. A visitor in Malana cannot touch their wall, to the extent that they wash their walls with the blood of a buffalo if an outsider happens to touch it.

Trek to Kheer Ganga

Trek to Kheer Ganga is a nine km, four-hour steep climb on narrow and tricky trails. As far as treks go, this is probably one of the easiest to do from Kasol.

Those not in the prime of their health still might find the hike to Kheer Ganga rather more than challenging. But when you finally reach the lush green meadow, you will find the geothermal spring as the answer to all your prayers. Just the thing you need when everything around you is chilling.

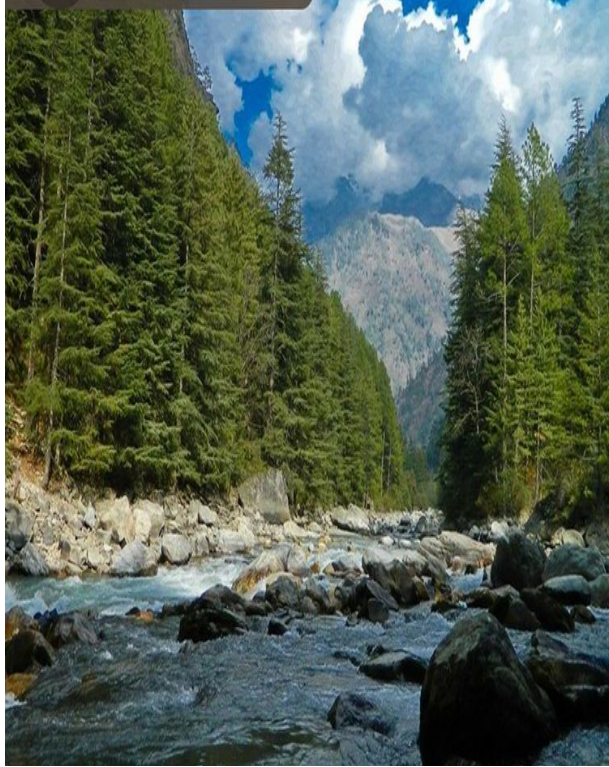

Try Israeli Food

Apart from being a hippie paradise, Kasol is also a haven for great food, albeit little known. Tucked amidst wilderness, in a remote corner of the world, Kasol is flocked by young Israelis. Hence the name Mini Israel. The influence is clearly visible in the Hebrew inscribed signboards and abundantly available Israeli food. When in Kasol don't hunt for fancy. Streetside cafes serve excellent food. Eat outdoors if you can. There is no dirt threatening to get into your food in this pristine valley.

f/2,5 ISO 100 3.5mm

Walk by the Parvati River

Nothing like a nice stroll down a cackling, churning and frothing Parvati river on one side and looming pine trees on the other. Clean white sand and smooth boulders separate the lush green grass from the tumbling blue-green water of the river. Every bend in the river opens up to an exciting vista of pine trees, cliffs and waterfalls. All this is framed with snow-capped peaks piercing the happy blue sky at the horizon. A great site to take those pictures you could show off on your wall. The river has a steep gradient and a greater mass of water, so it rages down in noisy torrents. It is inadvisable to cross the fierce river on foot.

f/2,5 ISO 150 3.5mm

The background of the image is a light beige or cream color, featuring a subtle, embossed or carved pattern of swirling, floral, and scrollwork designs. A vertical decorative band runs down the center, containing a repeating geometric pattern. A solid black horizontal bar is positioned across the middle of the image, containing the text "THANK YOU" in a white, serif font.

THANK YOU